

Sweet Sounds, Shared Memories

Join the Prelude family sing-a-long Sept. 15 at The Woodlands Children's Museum

THE WOODLANDS, Texas - Aug. 31, 2017 - Children will have a chance to sing to their hearts content Friday, Sept. 15, when The Woodlands Children's Museum hosts its next Prelude Sing-A-Long Family Concert.

Parents and children are invited to sing along with the next Prelude concert at The Woodlands Children's Museum, set for 11:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 15. Attached photo courtesy of The Woodlands Children's Museum.

The interactive performance is set for 11:30 a.m. at 4775 W. Panther Creek Drive, Suite 280.

"Singing is a wonderful teaching tool for children and is such a joyful experience," Angela Colton, executive director of the museum, said. "And sing-alongs like this help strengthen family bonds."

The Sept. 15 concert is part of an ongoing monthly series, the result of a partnership between the museum and Prelude Music Classes for Children.

Prelude founders, opera singer Ana Treviño-Godfrey and her husband, violinist Jonathan Godfrey, also helped establish the Houston-based Mercury chamber ensemble. Their classes help parents nurture children's natural enthusiasm for music and give children basic music skills.

The Prelude Family Sing-A-Long is included in the museum's admission cost of $6 per person age 1 year and older. The museum is recommended for ages 7 and under.
